Version 1.1

This version supersedes Version 1.0. It aligns adult authority with the Escalation & Discipline Policy v1.2, adds the procedure for students working outside a classroom, and hands supervision ratios to the Student Safety & Emergency Plan so the numbers live in one place. Works alongside: Student Safety & Emergency Plan v1.3 · Escalation & Discipline Policy v1.2 · Teacher & Volunteer Expectations v2.0

Purpose

This SOP sets out how a co-op day actually runs — roles, transitions, room setup, and dismissal. Its job is student safety, orderly movement, consistent supervision, protected instructional time, and clear adult roles.

It applies to all teachers, volunteers, and supervising adults.

This is the how document. What behavior means and what happens next is set by the Escalation & Discipline Policy. What you are authorized to do is set by Teacher & Volunteer Expectations. Where any of them appear to conflict on a safety matter, the Student Safety & Emergency Plan governs.

Adult Roles & Responsibilities

Teacher — Instructional Lead

Each instructional space has one designated Teacher, who is the final authority in that room unless leadership intervenes.

- Instruction and lesson flow
- Classroom management
- Holding expectations
- Deciding when behavior is costing the class its instruction
- Reporting concerns to leadership

Room Lead — Operational Support

Assigned to larger or higher-movement spaces.

- Support transitions and flow

- Assist with supervision during movement
- Help keep order in common areas
- Make sure students know where to go next
- Do not override a teacher's decisions in their room

Volunteer / Helper

- Reinforce teacher direction
- Assist with supervision and logistics
- Correct behavior and hold expectations in the moment, as any supervising adult may
- Do not override the teacher's direction in an instructional space
- Report discipline matters to the teacher or leadership rather than resolving them alone

On correcting. Every supervising adult at LLA — teacher, room lead, or volunteer parent — is authorized to correct behavior immediately and to remove a student from an activity temporarily when safety or order requires it. You do not need permission first.

What belongs to leadership is what comes after: issuing warnings, notifying families, defining repair, and deciding restoration or removal. Act on what's in front of you, then hand it up.

Supervision Standards

- Students remain in assigned, supervised spaces, except when stepped out to finish required work as described below
- Adults actively supervise at all times — presence in a room is not supervision
- Movement between spaces happens only when directed
- Unsupervised wandering is not permitted

Supervision ratios are set in the Student Safety & Emergency Plan and are not repeated here, so there is only ever one set of numbers to keep current.

Students Working Outside a Classroom

A student who arrives without work the lesson depends on, or falls behind during class, may be sent to finish it in the hallway or lounge and rejoin when it's done.

Supervision. The adult in the main room supervises the hallway. A student uses the teachers lounge only when an adult is already in it — if the lounge is empty, no student goes there. No student is ever sent to a space where no adult can see them.

This is a routine redirect, not discipline. Nothing is recorded and it counts toward nothing. It protects the lesson for the students who came ready.

Room Setup & Start of Class

- Materials prepared before students arrive
 - Expectations stated clearly at the start
 - Students accounted for
 - Work required for the lesson verified
 - Instruction begins promptly

Transitions Between Classes

- Transitions are supervised and time-limited
- Students move directly to their next assigned space
- Teachers and Room Leads assist with flow
- Loitering and unnecessary delay are addressed immediately

Orderly transitions protect both safety and instructional time.

Handling Disruptions During Class

- The teacher addresses it immediately
- Clear redirection or correction is given
- If it continues, the student may be removed from the activity temporarily
- Anything beyond that follows the Escalation & Discipline Policy

Teachers are not expected to sacrifice instruction to manage repeated disruption alone. Report it and leadership will carry it from there.

Assignment Preparedness

- Teachers may require assigned work to be completed before instruction
- A student without required work may be stepped out to finish it and rejoin the class — a routine redirect, not a penalty, and not a limit on their participation
- Required work not completed for two class sessions in a row is a Moderate concern, raised by the teacher to leadership

Preparedness is what makes co-op instruction work. A lesson built on reading nobody did stalls for everyone in the room.

End of Class & End of Day

- Students are dismissed in an orderly manner
 - Account for students during transitions
 - Communicate concerns to leadership promptly
 - Students are not dismissed independently unless explicitly directed

Escalation & Leadership Support

- Act first on what's in front of you, then report
 - Escalate when a pattern emerges rather than waiting for it to become a crisis
 - Leadership support is available and expected — asking for it is not a failure
 - Emergencies follow the Student Safety & Emergency Plan

Professional Conduct During Operations

- Remain calm and professional
- Use clear, respectful communication
- Support leadership decisions consistently, and raise disagreements privately through proper channels
- Address concerns through proper channels rather than in front of students
